

Queens International 2018: Volumes Passage

Patrick Killoran's Passage

exhibit highlights the library as an institution that uniquely produces and shares knowledge and inquiry. The Jackson Heights-based artist focuses on how social and in-person exchanges of knowledge take place in the library's physical space, even in an age when the Internet has replaced much of the research that used to take place in libraries. This exhibit creates viewing portals within stacks of books, inviting library visitors to uncover and connect the library's different knowledge systems.
